“UNDERWORLD” GETS A NEW LOOK

In case you've been wondering if your eyes are playing tricks on you down in the Magic Kingdom basement complex . . . no, they haven't. The walls have gone from blue to green and now orange, and coming up next week . . . red, white and blue! That's right, this is all part of our ongoing backstage beautification program.

Down in the tunnels, painters have been busy over the past weeks giving the tunnel under each land its own identification and look. As of this writing, Main Street basement has turned from light blue to green, Adventureland/Frontierland has taken on an orange hue and right at this very moment, painters are giving the walls under Liberty Square its new look . . . red, white and blue stripes! Yet to go are Fantasyland, Tomorrowland and the tunnel entrance complex.

Frank Kesler, Tom Broyles and Jerry Boylan of Main Street Maintenance put teamwork into action to create a new look for the “underworld.”

Coming up soon after the tunnels are finished getting their new coats, will be super graphics . . . giant signs, logo and lettering, styled for each individual land's basement area telling you graphically where you are and how to get where you want to go.

To keep all of these areas looking as fresh a year from now as they look right now, we ask that every cast member pitch in and help. If you drive a Pargo or some other vehicle in the tunnels, watch out that you don't scrape up against any walls. If you stack merchandise in the basement, take some care in Bo Donaldson and the Heywoods during their last appearance here in the Magic Kingdom.

The Magic Kingdom next week will be open for a special party one evening . . . our Boogie Back to School blast. And all set to perform are some great top-name groups from across the country. Names like Bo Donaldson and the Heywoods, B.T. The night is Saturday, September 6, and the time is from 8:30 pm till 1 am. And there is a special price just for cast members . . . only $5.50 (which is $1.45 below the regular admission price) with employee discounted tickets now available through all Cash Control locations and Cast Activities.

But first, what about the party? It is a “hard ticket” event, meaning that your ticket includes admission and transportation on the monorail system, unlimited use of all 45 Magic Kingdom attractions (except Shootin' Gallery) and all of the live music you can handle. The Park will close that evening at 7 pm and reopen at 8:30 pm for the party. Anyone entering will need a ticket.

Bo Donaldson and his group are no strangers to our special Magic Kingdom parties . . . they have performed here three times before. Having worked with The Raiders, The Rascals and the Osmond Brothers, the Heywoods have had tremen-

MOUSELLANEOUS

NEW ATTENDANCE RECORD SET!!!

A new attendance record was set this month in the Magic Kingdom. No, it was not the highest weekly attendance, nor was it the highest single-day attendance, in fact, it was a record for the most visits to Walt Disney World by a single individual. And that individual is none other than Mr. Millard C. Jones . . . called simply Mr. Jones by hundreds of cast members. On Friday, August 8, Mr. Jones made his 300th visit to the Magic Kingdom.

Now for those of you who have not had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Jones, let's introduce him to you. Mr. Jones, who hails from Lakeland, is in his mid-80's and started visiting the Park shortly after we opened. Since then, at the rate of two or three visits per week, he has hit the 300th mark . . . and plans on visiting another 300 times. Of course we couldn't let all of this go un-noticed, so on his 100th visit, he was presented with a bronze plaque making him an honorary citizen of Walt Disney World and a lifetime pass. On his 300th visit last Friday, he was "suckered" down to the Main Street break area where a surprise party awaited him, put on by his friends here.

Mr. Jones is always recognizable by his brown hat (year-round) and his Rolleiflex camera slung over his shoulder. On his visits, he keeps his "rollei" busy snapping pictures of the employees working in and around the Park. Then on his next visit, he brings a color print of them "on the job." The cost? Nothing to the employee, because Mr. Jones pays for everything. He told us that his picture taking is a hobby and personal pleasure.

Well, Mr. Jones has made thousands of friends over the years and we all want to say "Happy 300th Visit" . . . and we hope to see him for 300 more.

Do you remember last month when EYES & EARS published a special eight-page edition on America On Parade? We covered many of the aspects of putting the show on the road, so to speak, from the maintenance folks behind the scene to the cast members making up the People of America to the float drivers. Well, it seems that we missed another group of employees who come along "after the fact." And they are the Custodial Department cast members who man everything from brooms to power vacuum cleaners and bring up the rear. Perhaps we have overlooked other areas involved with the parade . . . However we hope to "expose" you in future editions.

moving it. If we all work together, then we can keep our backstage areas looking as nice as our onstage areas and keep them looking that way for a long time to come.

But painting the tunnels is not the only direction the clean-up program is taking. The Contemporary Resort's employee cafeteria, "The Bottom of the World," has just reopened after an extensive rehab and the Plaza Pavilion breakroom has acquired a new look with the painting of a floor-to-ceiling mural on three walls depicting a coastal water scene.

And not too far off, the Polynesian Village's employee cafeteria will also be getting a new look . . . a floor-to-ceiling mural of a southseas island scene, complete with palm trees, a lagoon and sailing ships.
